RUMPS STARTED

At Lexington in the Burley Tobacco Society By 113 Stockholders.

Lexington, Ky., November 8.—A. W. Slaughter, M. W. Douthitt and 111 other stockholders in the million-dollar Burley Tobacco Company, filed suit in Circuit Court, asking that the officials of that company be enjoined from refusing to allow them to examine the books and records.

The petition states that all the defendants are now stockholders in the corporation and following their names are listed and shares of stock owned by each member.

The par value of each share so held is given at $1. The grievances as set out in the suit is that the stockholders have repeatedly requested that they be allowed to examine the books and records and that the defendant has refused and continues to refuse to allow them to do so and will not fix a reasonable time for such an examination.

The examination has long been a bone of contention between the company and the 40,000 stockholders of the company in Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana.

NEW TRAIN SERVICE

The L. & N. Will Run a Through Train From Chicago To Jacksonville, Fla.

That the Louisville & Nashville railroad will make a strong bid for the passenger traffic to winter quarters in the South is shown by the announcement of a special train service from Chicago to Jacksonville, Fla., to be inaugurated November 21. Through trains will be run from Chicago to Cincinnati over the Pennsylvania lines and be transferred to the lines of the L. & N. There will be no change in the regular number of trains now employed on the L. & N., but the new service will take the place of trains No. 32 and No. 33. The equipment, it is said, will be the finest of any railroad in the South, the trains being made up of all steel vestibule coaches and passengers from the North can go through without a change.

The civil term of the Harrison Circuit Court convenes next Monday. There will be no Commonwealth cases and no grand jury.

Portsmouth, O., November 8.—Mrs. Robert Mustard, aged 33, wife of a prominent Oway farmer, died from shock at sight of flames consuming her husband's barn and threatening their home early Saturday. The barn and all of its contents, including much live stock, were destroyed. The State Fire Marshal has been notified, and the fire is believed to be of incendiary origin.

This space will not permit us to list it all. One great bargain is 100,000 feet of an EXCELLENT GRADE OF OAK SIDING. This goes at $2 PER HUNDRED. All other yard stock greatly reduced.

How To Avoid

The Motor Car That Bags At the Knees

The automobile is curiously like the human body—an assembling of independent parts.

The man-machine is made up of muscle and bone, nerve and blood, water and fat, waste matter and brains.

As far as locomotion's concerned, neither machine is any stronger than its weakest 'link.'

Mark the badly co-ordinated man. He looks O. K., but when there are stairs to climb or pace to be forced, he puffs and pants, and one concludes that his ruddy color came from a recent facial massage; that his bellows need mending, that his muscles aren't; that his 'strength' is mere scenery and that his sound appearance is mostly tailor made.

Haven't you seen automobiles just like that, look "pretty" but won't take you from Here to There and Back?

The "Wonder Car" that the Square Deal Man sells won't 'bag at the knees,' and he can prove by the testimony of delighted owners that it will take you There and Back, not once, but many times, and that it is the lowest "After Cost" car on the market today. If you are a prospective car owner, 'phone us and we will be glad to take you for a trial spin in the Maxwell "25."

Citizens' Rally Meeting Wednesday Night.

In view of the great interest taken in the movement and the good attendance at the "smoker" meeting at the City Council Chamber held Friday night, arrangements have been made to hold a citizens' rally meeting in the interest of the movement for the new Chamber of Commerce, the meeting to be held Wednesday night. The place of holding the meeting will be announced later. Mr. A. W. McKeand, president of the McKeand Service Company, of Indianapolis, Ind., which is assisting the local campaign committee in perfecting the new organization, will speak at the Wednesday evening meeting, as will also Mr. Thomas Boone, who for some time has been secretary of the commercial organization at Johnson City, Tenn.

The movement for the new Chamber of Commerce is gaining impetus each day. Our people realize the importance of having such an organization for Maysville and what it will mean in the future development of the commercial, industrial and civic interests of the city. It is pretty generally realized that the membership dues of $12.50 will be one of the best investments efficient citizens can make. It will certainly bring splendid returns and there is now no doubt that a fund sufficient will be raised to put over a strong, well-financed Chamber of Commerce here.

IMPROVING BUILDING.

Carpenters are at work on the F.

H. Traxel & Company building, getting it in shape for the holiday season.

A large dining hall and banquet room will be built on the second floor, large enough to accommodate several hundred people. This room will be used every day in which to serve dinners to the many patrons of this establishment who are now served in the ice cream parlor on the first floor of the building. In a few days the new hall will be ready for use and will be occupied at once.

THAT "TRIUMPH."

There is cumulative evidence that the "great diplomatic triumph" of the administration over Germany falls far short of being a triumph at all, and that it was due to British success in combatting the U-boat operations more than any skill of Mr. Wilson as a note-writer.

The British navy has largely increased its supply of undersized craft, and has seriously depleted the German submarine list. The U-boat campaign which Von Tirpitz planned has been a naval and an economic failure. The loss of British merchant ships from this cause has never exceeded 1 per cent of the total possible victims, while its cost to Germany, in boats as well as in money and men, has been wholly disproportionate.

Therefore, the German government really surrendered nothing in its plausible, and unreal concessions to Mr. Wilson. But the latter has sought to masquerade in a victor's robes. The stage was well set and the only trouble with the performance was that it was not the last act. The final scene was staged in London, where it became known that the British navy had taken a costly toll of German submarines and had really won the controversy for the American State Department. If every one is to be elected President because of the episode, the most deserving candidate is Sir John Jellicoe, whose ships did what Mr. Wilson's typewriter was incapable of procuring.

YOUR BEST GIFT.

In looking around for something appropriate to send your friend or relative at a distance for a Christmas present, just remember that your friend is always interested in the doings of the folks at home, and that the one thing of all others that he or she would appreciate is a year's subscription to this paper.

It is about the cheapest present you could make, and by far the most to be appreciated.

Every day we see or hear of something mighty good and praiseworthy about some one in this town, and it just clinches us in the opinion that it is a "good place to live." And we hear and see good deeds and traits of the farmers out in the country, and that, too, gives us a mighty fine feeling. A person might travel a long way and see many worse places to live than in this town and among these good town and country people. It suits us.

Four hundred and fifty million Chinese tremble at the menace of seventy million Japanese—a giant helpless at the feet of a pigmy. Japan has a magnificent army of seasoned and disciplined veteran troops and a complete equipment of modern guns and munitions of war, while China is without the means of self-defense—just like Uncle Sam.

We would like to know which business house you think has the most attractive, appealing and commanding in this issue of the paper.

HAVE YOU

Today a corps of earnest and energetic instructors are laboring to implant in the minds of the children of the community that knowledge which will enable them to cope with the innumerable obstacles which beset the rocky road of life.

What have you done to encourage the teachers?

Have you been to the school to lend them the inspiration of your presence, to let them know and understand that your heart is with them in their work of educating your children?

Your visit may not mean much to you, but it has its effect upon both pupil and instructor. To the pupil it is an evidence that while they are in the hands of others they are yet uppermost in your thoughts and that you are keeping a watchful parental eye to their welfare. To the instructors it signifies your moral support, your confidence in their efficiency and your undiminished interest in the welfare of both.

Richard Adrian was a rich bachelor. That was why he was on the list of every concern in America that had something to sell. His daily mail was chock-full of advertisements of all kinds from pastry flour to gold mines. And he was hourly besieged by agents of both sexes who insisted upon showing him "only editions" and improved rasors.

Mike, the office boy, was able to dissuade too persistent males, but Dorothy Darlington was prepared for Mike. She had heard of him and, arming herself for the ball game, Mike went down an easy victim.

Richard Adrian had decided that it was near enough to noon to escape from involuntary incarceration, as he always referred to his office, when Dorothy breezed in and shut the door.

"How do you do? Please don't blame my boy for letting me in. He couldn't help it. I'm sorry if you were getting ready to go home, because I can't afford many ball-game tickets, you know."

"I'm sorry I can't ask you to sit down. You see I must get away immediately." This was the prettiest one yet, and he had no desire to exercise his masculine wits against beauty in need.

"Oh, I am so sorry. I wanted to sell you some life insurance."

"Great Scott! I've got twenty-five thousand that I don't need. Besides, I'm not married, and haven't any wife to leave it to."

"But couldn't you get married?"

"Yes, yes! I suppose so. Well, sit down, Miss Darlington. I'll take five thousand of your insurance, but we'll say—in favor of my sister, to be transferred just as soon as I can find a suitable wife."

"How lovely!" exclaimed Dorothy, searching for papers in her bag. I think I am going to like the insurance business."

Two months later Dorothy had to get past Mike again. Never mind how she managed it, but she did.

This time she was asked to sit down. "But, really, I cannot take any more insurance, Miss Darlington. I've made all my second cousin beneficiaries now."

"But it isn't insurance this time," she declared. "It's a house. I'm selling real estate now. Nobody but you would take any insurance!"

"But, I don't want a house, either. I'm not married, you see, and—"

"Oh, haven't you got a wife yet? You said you would, so I supposed you had. I'm just crazy about it myself. All porches and gables and a sun parlor and a lawn and a garden. I have a picture of it here. There! Isn't it beautiful? Only the colors don't show up—the flowers and grass and trees, I mean."

Richard looked harder at the flushed cheeks and shining eyes than he did at the picture, but it really was an attractive house. It was a fine day, and his car was at the curb.

"I won't promise to buy the place, but I might take a look at it, Miss Darlington. 'Won't you go with me in my car and show it to me?'

The house was all that Dorothy claimed, and Richard Adrian enjoyed the excursion immensely. "Not a bad speculation," he thought. "I believe I'll take it over."

So the deal was made and things settled down as before.

Some weeks later Mike opened the office door. "A lady to see you, sir," he announced.

"I am so glad to find you in," exclaimed Dorothy Darlington, as Richard Adrian hospitably held out his hand and proffered a chair.

"And I am glad you came, Miss Darlington. There is only one thing I am sorry for—that I cannot buy another house. You see I am property poor now, and—"

"But I'm not selling houses this time. I'm in the jewelry business now. I've brought a catalogue and thought you might want something for your—wife, if you have one yet?"

"No. I'm not married yet."

"Oh! Aren't you? I was sure you would be by this time. And there are such beautiful things here in the book—pendants, brooches, bracelets and rings. I'm crazy about all of them myself."

Richard looked at her oddly. "Your enthusiasm is certainly contagious," he said. "Won't you tell me what you like best?"

She bent over and touched the open pages here and there where jeweled ornaments were pictured.

"And what ring do you like best?"

"This one!" She turned a few pages and pointed to a ruby and diamond ring.

Richard looked at her softly waving hair under the becoming little hat, her clear, velvety skin, and her frank blue eyes. He had been dreaming dreams of late.

"Miss Darlington, you've insured me and sold me a house for a prospective bride, who hasn't materialized. Now you want to sell me a ring for the same mythical person. Unless you can supply the wife, too, I'm afraid there is no use in buying the ring."

"The wife? I don't understand."

"Won't you be my wife, Dorothy? I love you. You'd better say 'Yes' if you want to sell me the ring. Won't you?"

She did not speak, but he read his answer in her happy eyes.

QUALITY TO BE CULTIVATED
Not Altogether a Matter of Curiosity in Asking a Woman If "She Is Vain Enough."

That may seem a strange question to ask most women, for, according to the opinions of the other sex, we possess all the vainglorious tendencies of the peacock, and then some; but there are women, and we all know them, who are not vain enough. They really could not care about their personal appearance, or they would not let the wisps of hair float unrestrained about otherwise half-dressed coiffures, or noses go shiny when the least dab of powder would remedy matters. It is not so much one's personal appearance that counts, for, after all, such people will tell you that they would rather take the time for improving their souls or their minds, or something equally intangible; but one should remember that one owes a certain amount of visible personal charm to one's neighbors; that even if you do not care whether your hair lies flat and unbecoming on your head, other people get some pleasure out of seeing you with a fluffy, prettily arranged coiffure. Again, there is a psychological effect from well grooming. A good complexion, beautiful hands and nails, becomingly arranged hair, a good, erect figure all act upon one's manners. A wave in the hair will take the kinks out of one's disposition. So cultivate enough vanity to make you always look your best and emphasize your own good points.

MONEY WAS EASILY EARNED
But Manufacturer Got What He Wanted and Paid for Knowledge Chemist Had Acquired.

A manufacturer of some patent compound came into the laboratory of an analytical chemist one day with a bottle containing an unwholesome-looking mixture.

"I would give $100," he said, "to know what would make the water and oil in this mixture separate."

The chemist looked at the bottle. "Very well," he said, "write out your check."

"Check?" the other echoed.

"Yes, your check for $100. You say you are willing to give that, and for that price I am willing to tell you what will make the water and oil separate."

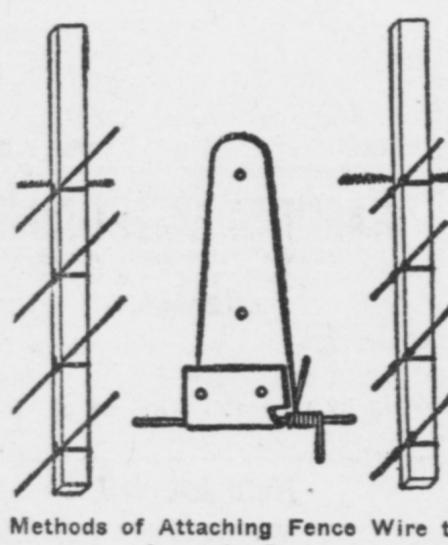

The visitor hesitated a moment, and then wrote a check for the sum named. The chemist carefully deposited it in his pocketbook, and then quietly dropped it into the liquid a pinch of common salt.

Instantly the water and oil separated, and whether the client was satisfied or not, he had got what he wanted and he had paid his own price for it.

WAY TO FASTEN WIRE FENCE
It is Not Desirable to Place Staples or Hoops in Green Concrete—Simple Plan Is

There are numerous methods of attaching wire fencing to concrete posts. Some makers place staples or wire loops in the green concrete; others make holes in the posts. The former method is not desirable because the fastener cannot be located exactly where the wire of the fencing will come when the post is set in the ground; then, too, the fastener will eventually rust or break off and will thus injure the looks of the post. On the other hand, holes through the posts weaken them, and therefore this method is, in general, unsatisfactory.

The simplest, easiest, and cheapest way of fastening a wire fence to a concrete post is by encircling the post with a wire one size less than the corresponding wire in the fence proper and by twisting this wire around the strand of the fence. This is done in two ways. The fastening wire is placed around the post, twisted upon itself and then to the fence wire; or one end of the fastening wire is twisted around the fence wire, and the free end is then carried around the post and twisted on the other side to the same wire. Either plan is good, but care must be taken to draw the fastening wire tight, or else stock trying to get through the fence may raise or crush down the fencing with their heads. If any trouble is experienced, the post should be roughened at the fastening point with a cold chisel.

Expansion and contraction of the fence due to heat and cold are cared for by the tension curves or "kinks" in the woven-wire fencing, and no fear may be felt in drawing the fastening wires as tight as necessary. Wooden nailing strips should never be embedded in the posts, for moisture will drop from them.

Don't Give Up Wheat Crop
Some Farmers Discouraged Because of Lateness in Getting Threshing Done—Disk is Handy Tool.

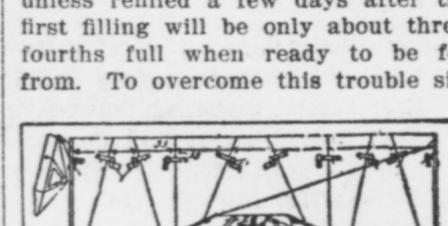

All probability some who planned to sow wheat this fall are about to give it up owing to the lateness of the season in getting the threshing done. To be sure, it is better to plow early for wheat if you can, but if you cannot, then do the next best thing—plow as soon as possible. It would help in getting a good seedbed to double-disk the ground before plowing, then plow five or six inches deep and follow with disk and corrugated crusher alternately several times. The moist fields now have quite a crop of weeds and grass which will tend to make air spaces in the seedbed. Wheat will not hold well through the winter in a seedbed that contains air spaces. Most people do not think of a disk as in any way connecting with compacting the ground, but it is more effective in filling in air spaces than any other tool.

What about your seed wheat? Is it good? If it isn't, better sell it and buy of someone who threshed early and has good seed. The difference in price would be well spent.

ADJUSTABLE ROOF FOR SILO

Practical Method for Overcoming Trouble Caused by Slags Settling—Snow and Rain Kept Out.

Silos always settle several feet, and unless refilled a few days after the first filling will be only about three-fourths full when ready to be fed from. To overcome this trouble silo roofs, tops and covers have been devised to allow the filling several feet above the top, so that when settling is all over the silo will be nearly full. The roof shown here is adjustable, being the recent patent of a Galesburg, Ill., inventor. The roof opens out to extend the silo upward perpendicularly when being filled. After settling, this roof can be folded up to make a closed top that sheds rain and keeps out snow. Independently elevatable sections, one of them having a cap attached, are locked together.

GIVE GOD THANKS

Especially at This Time His Children Should Not Fail to Show Gratitude.

"Bless the Lord, O my soul; and all that is within me, bless his holy name. Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits."—Psalm 103:1,2.

The Feast of Tabernacles, which was the Jewish thanksgiving festival by divine appointment, may suggest to us in large part the spirit and manner in which our national Thanksgiving day can be most fittingly observed.

The people were directed to turn aside from their accustomed secular pursuits and devote the time being to celebrating the goodness of God in grateful and joyful recognition of all that he had done for them. It was a religious feast, but had its social features, which were also of beneficial effect.

It was intended to specially impress upon the minds of the Israelites a proper sense of God's gracious dealings with them, and to call forth their gratitude in consequence. He had kindly cared for them, had brought them into the pleasant and fertile land. He had promised them, and had given them bountiful harvests; and it was a good thing for them to have an annual thanksgiving feast during which to recall his blessings to them and praise his great goodness. They would thus be moved to ascribe to him the many benefits they enjoyed and to express their feeling of obligation and gratitude to him.

Ingratitude is a great sin and a very common one. There is too much of a disposition to forget that all our blessings come from God. There is also an inclination to dwell upon the seeming evils and disadvantages of life. It is eminently fitting, therefore, that we should pause at times in the midst of our worldly cares and occupations, and review the mercies of God toward us and see how much reason and occasion we have for gratitude to him.

Thank Him for Gifts.

Thank God for your being and for all the mercies with which he has crowned your lives. Thank him for your homes and their comforts, for health and friends, for sustaining grace under trouble and deliverances from evil, for the privileges and blessings of his Gospel and his church, for this highly favored land in whose pleasant places your lines are cast, for abundant harvests and the large measure of prosperity that has attended us as a people. Thank him, too, for the trials and sufferings that have come upon you, and which under his directing hand have issued in some form of good. "Men are prone to thank God for those prosperities of vine and mead and shop and ship which made life easy and comfortable; but they are rarely grateful for those happenings which make life difficult and great." A man is specially and divinely fortunate not when his conditions are easy, but when they evoke the very best that is in him; when they provoke him to nobleness, and stirs him into strength; when they clear his vision, kindle his enthusiasm, and inspire his will."

Another purpose that the Thanksgiving Feast of Tabernacles subserved was that it taught the supreme importance of spiritual realities. It directed attention to that which is higher and better than that which pertains exclusively to the worldly life. The people were to turn their thought for a while specially to God and his goodness and his worship. They were to remember that true life is found in the way of righteousness and in useful service for the glory of God and the good of man. Our thanksgiving must have its true counterpart in thanks giving. We must give the chief place to spiritual and eternal things. This will make life what it is designed to be.

Home the Foundation of All.

The Feast of Tabernacles afforded an opportunity for the reunion of families and friends and for social intercourse. In keeping with this is the character of our Thanksgiving day. It is a time for the social gathering together, in the old homestead or elsewhere, of the various members of the family, old and young. The home is a divine institution. It is at the foundation of good government and national prosperity. Religion makes the home what it ought to be in proportion as Christian precept is heeded, the home becomes a place of hallowed affection and sweet and holy and elevating influence. "Moral decay in the family is the inevitable prelude to public corruption." The safety and welfare of the nation depend upon the purity and sanctity of the domestic ties.

This is the practical significance of our national Thanksgiving festival, and if we lay to heart the great truths and lessons for which it stands, they will help to qualify us for the faithful discharge of our duty to God and to our country, to our neighbor and ourselves. Rev. John Brubaker, D. D.

Always Work to Do.

Sad will be the day for any man when he becomes absolutely contented with the life he is living, with the thoughts he is thinking and the deeds that he is doing—when there is not forever beating at the doors of his soul some great desire to do something larger which he knows that he was meant and made to do because he is a child of God.—Phillips Brooks.

Change Causes Loss.

A change of milkers means a change in the manner of milking and a loss of milk until the cow becomes accustomed to the new milker.

Joseph Saladino, of Oxford, N. H., says the grasshoppers were so thick on his farm this summer that he cut only one load of hay from 150 acres of tillage land, but he caught twenty-six and one-half bushels of grasshoppers, for which he received a bounty of $65 twice as much as the value of the hay crop harvested.

POSITIVE PROOF
Should Convince the Greatest Skeptic in Maysville

Because it's the evidence of a Maysville citizen.

Testimony easily investigated.

The strongest endorsement of merit.

The best proof. Read it:

Mrs. Della Luneford, 328 E. Front St., Maysville, says: "I attribute kidney trouble to a strain. I had sharp shooting pains through my kidneys and a dragging-down feeling through my hips. I had dull headaches and dizzy spells and often if I had not caught hold of something for support I would have fallen. I was in condition for several years, week and in bed the rest. I finally began to notice symptoms of dropsy. My feet began to swell and my hands were at times the same way. Finally, I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they cured me."

OVER THREE YEARS LATER Mrs. Luneford said: "Doan's Kidney Pills completely and permanently cured me and I would glad to confirm all I said in their praise before."

EARLY HISTORY OF EUROPE

Confederation of Germanic Tribes the Foundation of Countries of Germany and France.

The name Franks was applied about the middle of the third century to a confederation of Germanic tribes dwelling on the middle and lower Rhine. Later they became divided into two principal groups—the Salians, inhabiting the districts on both sides of the lower Rhine, and the Ripuarians, settled on the middle Rhine. In the third and fourth centuries hordes of them began to move southwards and afterwards into Gaul. In 358 Emperor Julian, although he defeated the Salian invaders, allowed them to establish themselves permanently in Trier, the country between the Meuse and the Scheldt. From this time Frankish chiefs and warriors frequently served in the Roman armies; and during the fifth century they rendered valuable service to the empire by stemming the tide of barbarian invasion. By this time the Salian Franks had made themselves masters of northern Gaul, while the Ripuarians were concentrated around Cologne. Under Hlodwig or Clovis, king of the former confederation, the Franks were converted to Christianity, while by his conquests in central Gaul, and by his subjugation of the Alemanni and the Ripuarian Franks, he not only extended his dominions as far as the Loire in the one direction and the Maine in the other, but he laid the foundation of what subsequently developed into the kingdom of France.

Some experts like fried oysters dipped in milk to prepare them, rather than in egg and crumbs. Dip in milk, then in crumbs, then fry in butter, seasoning as they are cooking. Oysters are so delicate that they should be cooked but a short time or they become tough and tasteless.

not arranged to attend their meetings,
it will pay you to do so. This is one of the liveliest bunches of youngsters in the great big M. E. church. They are known throughout the entire United States for their work. This meeting is preparatory to the revival services which will begin next week. It will be led by Rev. D. Wendel Brown, the "mountain evangelist."WEEK OF PRAYER, NOVEMBER 7
TO 13.The annual Week of Prayer, appointed by the Woman's Missionary Council, will be observed by the local auxiliaries of the First M. E. church, South, Monday and Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. The adult auxiliary will have charge of the meetings, and Tuesday and Thursday at the same hour the Young People's Society, under the leadership of Mrs. Campbell, will render interesting programs. The topics for special study are "Work in Japan" and "The Japanese in the United States." The following clipping from the Missionary Bulletin explains the appropriation of the Thank Offering for 1915:

Week of Prayer.
"In every auxiliary plan to observe the Week of Prayer this year, November 7-13. The entire support of the Pacific Coast Work of the Home Department depends upon the contributions this year. How is this money appropriated? It supports five oriental preachers; it supports a night school with two teachers at Alameda; it supports two kindergartens; it supports various settlement features like mothers' clubs, study hours, etc.; it helps in the upkeep of a Korean church and a circuit of four appointments and a Japanese circuit of six appointments. If any auxiliary fails to contribute this year to the Week of Prayer fund, it will curtail the appropriation for this work and cut it out of part in this important phase of home mission work. Nine thousand and seven hundred dollars must come through this Week of Prayer collection for the home work."

Charles Monahan, wife and two sons and Mrs. Joel Woodward and son, Powell, of Connerville, Ind., motored through the last of the week and spent a few days with relatives here.

The following town officers were elected: G. W. Woodward, police judge; Joe Pollock, marshal; W. F.
Tucker, Charles Yager, Sam Gal-
agher, George Kabler and Elijah Case, trustee.

Mack Erwin went to Cincinnati
Sunday, returned Monday, accompanying his wife, and it will be pleasing to their many friends to see that she is doing nicely after undergoing a most severe surgical operation in a hospital in that city.

his home. The groom is the son of Hiram Galbraith, while the bride is a daughter of Robert Freshour, and both are well and favorably known to a large circle of friends.

MORE MARINES NEEDED.

New York, November 8.—Because many of their less than 10,000 absolutely needed at his post at home, the United States Corps will not be represented in year's military show at Madison Square Garden.

Army and navy will be represented, but the little Marine which is neither of these, and can not afford to send even a to the 1915 tournament.

"soldiers of the sea," 9,921 law, form the first line of mobilized defense, and the of the United States have not stripped to furnish the for ships, the expedi-
for Haiti, the legation
at Peking, China, and Managua, as well as manning the frontier defense posts at Guantanamo, Cuba, the Philippines,
Guam and the Hawaiian Islands.

Congress, at its next session, will be asked to increase the Marine Corps by 1,500 officers and men, and it is believed that the request has strong backing in the ranks of the security leagues who wish to see the first line of defense strengthened so as to insure an adequate number of marines at home in case of necessity.

GIVES BIRTH TO NINE CHILDREN IN EIGHTEEN MONTHS.

Lexington, Ky., November 5.—Mrs.
Gather Drewry, of Spencer County, has a record today which it is believed has never been surpassed. In eighteen months she has given birth to nine children. Eighteen months ago three boys and two girls were born to her.

The girls died, but the three boys are doing fine. Today, so news reached her tonight, she gave birth to four boys, all of whom are healthy and doing nicely.

The mother is about 30 years old and apparently is getting along well.
An unusual record probably will be set in a will for mothers' pensions introduced in the coming Legislature.

SOME APPLES.

Mr. James Sweet, of the county, was in Maysville Saturday and gave a number of his friends some of the large apples that were grown on his farm. The apple, which is known as the Mann type, is about the largest ever grown in this vicinity. Some of the specimens shown were nearly twenty inches in circumference. They were grown without any artificial aid and were not sprayed to prevent disease.
Many of the apples weighed more than a pound, and those who ate them said that they were a good-sized meal. The tree that they grew on bore many equal to those shown, and the top limbs were so laden with fruit that they touched the ground. Mr.
Sweet says he obtained five barrels of the same kind of apples he was showing off one tree, weighing nearly a ton.

INSPECTING

Maysville Man Makes Trip To Hunt-

Incinerator Works.

(Huntington Herald-Dispatch.)
Hon. Andrew Clooney, member of the City Council of Maysville, Ky., was a visitor in Huntington yesterday for the first time in a number of years. The object of his visit was to inspect a number of improvements made here recently, and he was shown about the city by Assistant City Engineer John Sanborn.

Mr. Clooney was particularly impressed, not only with the growth of Huntington, he said, but also with the quality of the civic improvements, including pavement, the new incinerator,
the market house, fire equipment and the city building. Mr. Clooney was particularly concerned about the incinerator, as the city of Maysville is planning to install similar apparatus for the disposal of garbage and refuse.
